

NEWSLETTER 3 – JUNE

INTERNATIONAL MEETING

“Global Ethics and Equal opportunities:
The women rate to the development of Europe and Mediterranean”

Turin 11 - 14 September 2014

Women, CULTURE AND EDUCATION

Dear friends, the international meeting of September is coming!
To draw your attention on the discussed themes and to facilitate your knowledge, starting from this number, the newsletter will be dedicated to each theme, with reference to last UNESCO documents, and to the experts invited to participate about this theme.

In particular this newsletter concern “Culture and Education”.

Complete Programme: <http://www.centrounesco.to.it/?action=view&id=900>

Personalities and experts who will participate to the Meeting:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Patrizia Asproni President of the Turin Museums Foundation. She is all along active in the cultural field and she is President of Confcultura and Fondazione Industria e Cultura of Confindustria.
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Ilaria Borletti Buitoni Undersecretary of the Ministry of Cultural Heritage and Activities and Tourism. She dedicated her life to the voluntary work and to the third sector, and for many years she has been active as President of FAI, an association that works to protect the Italian Cultural Heritage.
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Daniela Finocchi Creator of the National literary contest Lingua Madre. Journalist and writer, she is all along interested in the feminine thought. She created one of the most known National Literary contests, which is dedicated to Italian women and to those foreign women who lives in Italy.

Can CULTURE and EDUCATION positively influence future development?

FROM UNESCO AGENDA 2015

- “Education in a fundamental right for all the people, and it is strictly linked to the realization of the other rights”
- “Education is the base for the prosperity of a person, of the peace, of the durable development, of gender equality and of a global responsible citizenship”
- “To put culture at the core of development is a fundamental investment for the future world and the condition of the success of globalization that includes the principles of the cultural diversity: UNESCO’s mission s that of remembering this fundamental effort to the nations”
- “UNESCO indicator of the culture for development (IUCD) is a pioneer project of the applied research that want to identify some indicators that underline how culture can contribute to the development at national level, can favour the economic growth, help people an communities to make life choices and to adapt to the changes”

We look forward to your reflection ad statement, take part to:

INTERNATIONAL CONTEST
“CULTURE, NUTRITION, VIOLENCE:
“EXPERIENCES OF WOMEN OF ANY AGE AND COUNTRY ”

<http://www.centrounesco.to.it/?action=view&id=901>